A 2005 drum making class held in South Bend, Washington, the traditional territory of the Chinook Indian Nation’s Willapa ancestors. The Nation’s Culture Committee and community volunteer have consistently offered cultural classes for membership. Classes like these help maintain important traditions, and are important social events as well, where family history, songs and stories are shared.